Land Trust Permanently Protects 2 Acres

Susan H. Fisher recently donated a conservation easement that enhances a significant greenway along Greenwich-Stamford town lines. "Donating the development rights of the property to the Land Trust is an enduring gift, made possible by a very generous donor who is deeply committed to preserving the rural character and community of her neighborhood," said Bill Boysen, President of the Land Trust.

Food Bank Recipient of Land Trust Apples

Approximately 85 pounds of apples were harvested from one of five orchards that the Land Trust has restored to fruit production in the last 10 years. Gold Rush and Liberty were among the most productive apple trees this year. Apples were harvested by Land Trust volunteers and donated to "Neighbor to Neighbor", a non-profit food bank conducted out of Christ Episcopal Church in Greenwich.

An Afternoon in the Orchard

The Land Trust honored top donors and generous volunteers at an afternoon in our apple orchard on Meadowcroft Lane. Conservation Council members Louisa McCall and Crissy Robinson organized a lovely afternoon of apple picking and family activities. Go Wild Committee members and co-chairs Kristie Thorson & Amory Spizzirri were thanked for all their hard work on this year's spectacular event.

Plan of Conservation & Development (POCD)

Once every ten years, the Town of Greenwich is required by the state of Connecticut to prepare a Plan of Conservation and Development (POCD). This fall, the firm of Planimetrics is hosting meetings where residents can comment on topics that are important to them. Topics discussed have included traffic, open space, the central business district, our shoreline, our parks, water quality, density issues, affordable housing and athletic facilities. We have the opportunity to voice our opinions at the remaining meetings on the following dates: 11/28, 12/13 and 12/19.
